

ABSTRACT

A control rod suspension has at least one dampening structure having an outboard end and an inboard end. The inboard end is pivotally mounted to the vehicle frame.

The outboard end is pivotally mounted to a king pin. A king pin rotatably connects

5. the knuckle with a steer axle beam.